CBSE Class 10 English (Language and Literature) Question Paper 2024

Set – 1 (2/3/1) Solutions

Section-A: (20 Marks)

Reading Skills

1. Read the following text: 10 M

(1) Fossil fuels (oil, coal, and natural gas) are our most traditional sources for power generation. The energy that's produced from any source other than fossil fuels is termed as alternative energy. Between the two sources, using alternative energy has a lower environmental impact.

(2) We now know that alternative energy sources are the sources we use to supplement or even replace traditional energy sources used for power generation. You could almost say the same thing about. renewable energy sources. But there is one subtle difference between the two. All renewable energy sources fall under the category of alternative energy sources, but it doesn't work the other way around.

(3) That's because renewable energy sources are derived from naturally replenished sources processes of Earth, such as the sun, wind, and water. We refer to these resources as renewable or sustainable since, unlike fossil fuels, this naturally occurring continual renewal makes them inexhaustible. However, alternative energy sources are exhaustible, and therefore not renewable. That's the difference!

(4) The equipment necessary to harness energy from alternative sources used to be so expensive that it wasn't practical for consumer use. However, thanks to increased demand, more experienced energy developers, competitive supply chains, improved renewable technologies, and enhanced energy efficiency capabilities, that's no longer the case.

(5) When comes to energy efficiency, the leader of the renewable energy pack is wind energy. Behind wind comes geothermal energy, hydropower, nuclear energy, and then solar power. Wind power serves both individuals and entire communities. It is versatile, and can be produced from small-scale windmills or wind turbines on residential properties. It can also be produced from large-scale offshore wind farms in the ocean.

(6) We generate geothermal power by tapping into underground reservoirs of hot water and steam. Geothermal electricity can directly heat and cool buildings. Generated from the energy of moving water, hydroelectricity (also known as hydropower) is produced when water behind a dam causes turbine blades to move as it flows through an intake. The turbine blades then rotate a generator to produce electricity that is sent to power homes.

(7) Nuclear energy is created in the form of heat through the fission process of atoms. The initial fission process creates energy and triggers a chain reaction that repeats the process and generates more energy. In nuclear power plants, the heat that fission produces creates steam. The steam then rotates a turbine, which leads to the production of electricity.

(8) Solar power most commonly refers to the use of solar cells to create energy. On a small scale, you may see a few solar panels on a house roof used to produce energy for just that one home. On a larger scale, you may see a solar farm used as a power plant to produce electricity for its consumers.

Answer the following questions, based on the above passage:

(i) Which of the following statements best describes the difference between renewable energy sources and alternate energy sources? 1

2. Read the following text, an excerpt from a case study titled "Scouts and Guides Around the World," 10 M

(1) Many young people aged between 6 and 25 belong to the Scout movement. It is a worldwide organization, which was set up to help young people achieve their full potential as they grow up.

(2) The organization was established in 1907 by a British general called Robert Baden-Powell. While in the army, he wrote a publication about scouting (which means searching and keeping watch) and how to survive in the wild, called 'Aids to Scouting'. He realized how popular this was, and the result was another book, 'Scouting for Boys', which had less emphasis on the military. To test his ideas, he held a week-long camp for 21 boys from various schools in London, Poole and Bournemouth. This took place in August 1907, on Brownsea Island, in Southern England. These boys had the chance to enjoy outdoors, which became another of the movement's objectives.

(3) The Scout Movement quickly got established in Europe. It then spread throughout the world, starting in Chile in 1909. To begin with, the focus was on boys aged 11 to 18. However, as the movement grew, it was clear that younger boys, older boys and girls all wanted to be involved. Baden-Powell's sister set up the Girl Guides in 1910, and in 1914 she started Rosebuds, later renamed. Brownies, for younger girls. The movement's intention to help young people play useful roles in society applies equally to girls and boys. By 2010, there were 32 million scouts, and by 2006, there were 10 million guides around the world, from a total of 216 different countries.

(4) 2007 marked 100 years of the Scout Movement, and events took place around the world to celebrate this centenary. To mark the occasion, a colourful badge was produced for scouts to sew onto their. uniforms or bags. The design included the official scout emblem, as well as the phrase, 'one world one promise', and images of doves and the globe.

(5) 2007 was also the 150th anniversary of Baden-Powell's birth. To honour both occasions, a flame was lit at Baden-Powell's grave in Nyeri. This is the place in Kenya where he spent the last few years of his life. The flame was then carried through several countries until it reached the UK.

Moreover, the rise in commercial vehicles parked outside colony gates further exacerbates the problem by blocking exits. This situation calls for urgent solutions, such as the creation of additional parking spaces, the implementation of strict parking regulations, and the restriction of commercial vehicle parking in residential areas to ensure smoother and safer traffic flow within colonies.

(b) The following data shows global literacy rates of different age groups and gender in a particular year. Write an analytical paragraph describing and analyzing the given data.

Global literacy rate %	People of different age-groups
	12 – 15 years	15 – 24 years	25 – 64 years	65 years and older
Men	88	90	88	80
Women	80	88	79	75

Ans: The data provided illustrates global literacy rates across different age groups and genders. For the 12-15 years age group, men have a literacy rate of 88%, while women have 80%. In the 15-24 years age group, men's literacy rate increases to 90%, with women's rate slightly lower at 88%. Among the 25-64 years age group, men maintain an 88% literacy rate, whereas women's rate drops to 79%. For individuals 65 years and older, literacy rates decline for both genders, with men at 80% and women at 75%.

This data shows that younger age groups exhibit higher literacy rates, indicating improvements in global education over recent years. However, there remains a gender gap, with men consistently having higher literacy rates than women in all age groups. Addressing this disparity is crucial to ensuring equal educational opportunities for both genders, promoting overall societal progress and empowerment.

In "The Proposal," we see a comical yet telling relationship between Natalya and Lomov, filled with arguments but underlying affection and social necessity. Their interactions reveal how relationships can be driven by external pressures and the desire for social stability. On the other hand, Anne Frank's diary entries highlight deep and meaningful relationships with her family and friends, showcasing how love, understanding, and support are crucial during tough times. Anne's reflections on her relationships reveal her emotional maturity and the significance of genuine connections.

To conclude, I'd like to say that relationships, whether comical or serious, play a vital role in our lives, shaping our experiences and emotions. Thank you.
