SECTION − D

(Long Answer Questions)

(4×5=20)

30. (A) Examine the progress of the Civil Disobedience Movement in the countryside. 4

Answer:

The Civil Disobedience Movement in the countryside saw widespread participation. Peasants defied British laws by refusing to pay taxes and boycotting British goods. The movement gained momentum as leaders like Gandhi promoted non-violent resistance. This increased rural involvement, challenging colonial rule and highlighting the need for land reforms and better living conditions.

OR

(B) Analyze the ways through which people of different communities developed a sense of collective belonging in India. 4

Answer: Different communities in India developed a sense of collective belonging through shared cultural symbols like festivals and languages. Nationalist leaders used newspapers, literature, and educational institutions to foster unity. Mass movements and anti-colonial struggles also played a key role in uniting people from diverse backgrounds under a common national identity.

31. (A) How is pipeline transport network important in the transport system of India? Explain with an example. 4

Answer: Pipeline transport is crucial for efficiently moving liquids and gases. For example, the Kandla–Koyali pipeline transports crude oil from the port to refineries. This network reduces transport costs, ensures steady supply, and minimizes environmental impact compared to road or rail transport.

OR

(B) How have physical and economic factors influenced the distribution pattern of the Indian Railway Network? Explain with examples.

Answer: Physical factors like terrain and climate shape the railway network. For instance, railways are dense in the Ganga plains due to flat terrain. Economic factors such as industrial areas influence railway routes. Railways are extensive in coal-rich regions like Jharkhand to support mining and transportation.

32. (A) "Democracy stands much superior to any other forms of governments in promoting dignity and freedom of the individual." Support the statement with arguments. 4

Answer: Democracy promotes dignity and freedom by ensuring equal rights for all individuals and free speech. Elected representatives reflect the people's will, and legal protections prevent abuse of power, thus safeguarding individual freedoms and human rights.

OR

(B) "Democracy produces an accountable, responsive and legitimate government." Support the statement with arguments.

Answer: In a democracy, elected officials are accountable to the public through elections and checks and balances. Governments must be responsive to public needs and justify their actions. This system ensures that decisions are made with legitimacy, reflecting the people's preferences and promoting transparency.

33. (A) Justify the role of 'Self Help Groups' in the rural economy. 4

Answer: Self Help Groups (SHGs) empower rural individuals by providing access to credit and support for small businesses. They promote savings, group activities, and entrepreneurship, improving economic stability and empowerment among rural communities, especially women.

OR

(B) "Cheap and affordable credit is crucial for the country's development." Justify the statement. 4

Answer: Affordable credit stimulates economic growth by enabling small businesses and farmers to invest in improvements and expansion. It supports entrepreneurship, creates jobs, and boosts overall development by ensuring that financial resources are available to those who need them most.

WHY NEWSPAPERS?

'Krishnaji Trimbuck Ranade inhabitant of Poona intends to publish a Newspaper in the Marathi Language with a view of affording useful information on every topic of local interest. It will be open for free discussion on subjects of general utility, scientific investigation and the speculations connected with the antiquities, statistics, curiosities, history and geography of the country and of the Deccan especially... the patronage and support of all interested in the diffusion of knowledge and Welfare of the People is earnestly solicited.' Bombay Telegraph and Courier, 6 January, 1849

'The task of the native newspapers and political associations is identical to the role of the Opposition in the House of Commons in Parliament in England. That is of critically examining government policy to suggest improvements, by removing those parts that will not be to the benefit of the people, and also by ensuring speedy implementation. These associations ought to carefully study the particular issues, gather diverse relevant information on the nation as well as on what are the possible and desirable improvements, and this will surely earn it considerable influence.'

Native Opinion, 3 April 1870

(I) Explain the main reason for publishing newspaper by Krishnaji?

Answer: Krishnaji Trimbuck Ranade aimed to publish a newspaper to provide useful information on local and national topics, encouraging free discussion and scientific investigation. He sought to promote knowledge diffusion and the welfare of the people through his publication.

(II) How was the task of native newspaper and political association seen identical to the role of opposition?

Answer: Native newspapers and political associations were seen as similar to the opposition in Parliament because they were responsible for examining government policies, suggesting improvements, and ensuring that policies were beneficial to the people. They played a crucial role in critically analysing and influencing governance.

(III) Analyze the reasons for the popularity of newspapers during the 19th century.

Answer: Newspapers gained popularity in the 19th century due to their role in disseminating information, fostering public debate, and promoting political awareness. They provided updates on local and global events, supported social reform movements, and served as a platform for free expression.

RAINWATER HARVESTING

Many thought that given the disadvantages and rising resistance against the multipurpose projects, water harvesting system was a viable alternative, both socio-economically and environmentally. In ancient India, along with the sophisticated hydraulic structures, there existed an extraordinary tradition of water harvesting system. People had in-depth knowledge of rainfall regimes and soil types and developed wide ranging techniques to harvest rainwater, groundwater, river water and flood water in keeping with the local ecological conditions and their water needs. In hill and mountainous regions, people built diversion channels like the 'guls' or 'kuls' of the Western Himalayas for agriculture. 'Rooftop rainwater harvesting' was commonly practised to store drinking water, particularly in Rajasthan. In the flood plains of Bengal, people developed inundation channels to irrigate their fields. In arid and semi-arid regions, agricultural fields were converted into rain fed storage structures that allowed the water to stand and moisten the soil like the 'khadins' in Jaisalmer and 'Johads' in other parts of Rajasthan.

(I) Why is water harvesting system a viable alternative?

Answer: Water harvesting is a viable alternative due to its socio-economic and environmental benefits. It provides sustainable water sources, reduces dependence on large-scale projects, and adapts to local conditions for efficient water management.

(II) Describe the process of 'rooftop rainwater harvesting.'

Answer: In rooftop rainwater harvesting, rainwater is collected from roof surfaces, channeled through pipes into a storage tank. The water is then filtered and used for drinking, irrigation, or other purposes, especially in regions like Rajasthan.

(III) Mention any two methods adopted by ancient India for water conservation.

Answer:

- Diversion channels like 'guls' or 'kuls' in the Western Himalayas for agriculture.
- Rain-fed storage structures like 'khadins' in Jaisalmer and 'Johads' in Rajasthan to capture and store rainwater.

Language Diversity of India

How many languages do we have in India? The answer depends on how one counts it. The latest information that we have is from the Census of India held in 2011. This census recorded more than 1300 distinct languages which people mentioned as their mother tongues. These languages were grouped together under some major languages. For example languages like Bhojpuri, Magadhi, Bundelkhandi, Chhattisgarhi, Rajasthani and many others were grouped together under 'Hindi'. Even after this grouping, the Census found 121 major languages. Of these 22 languages are now included in the Eighth Schedule of the Indian Constitution and are therefore called 'Scheduled Languages'. Others are called 'Non-Scheduled Languages'. In terms of languages, India is perhaps the most diverse country in the world.

(I) Explain the importance of language diversity in India.

Answer: Language diversity in India reflects its rich cultural heritage and social complexity. It promotes cultural identity, supports regional languages, and enhances communication among diverse communities. This diversity is integral to national unity and cultural preservation.

(II) Differentiating between Scheduled and Non-Scheduled Languages.

Answer:

- Scheduled Languages: Recognised and listed in the Eighth Schedule of the Indian Constitution, receiving official support and recognition.
- Non-Scheduled Languages: Not included in the Eighth Schedule, often lacking formal support and recognition.

(III) 'The fusion of languages has united the country into one cultural entity.' Explain the statement with an example.

Answer: The fusion of languages, such as the use of Hindi alongside regional languages, has helped create a unified national identity while respecting regional diversity. For example, Bollywood films use a mix of Hindi and regional languages, promoting a shared cultural experience across India.
